PRICE TWO CENTS

GROUND IN FINE SHAPE ALL READY FOR GREAT PICNIC

Grocers' Annual Party Bids Fair to Be the Happiest Event in History of Association

A WONDERFUL TRAINED DOG

Taggart Talks of Mysterious Attraction Which Will Vie with the Balloon Ascension

PROGRAM LONG AND INTERESTING

Scores of Valuable Prizes to Be Awarded Contestants at Camp Tate Annual Outing Tomorrow

"The grounds are in fine shape right now!"

It was Harry Taggart's voice, calling over long distance from Camp Tate, the site selected for tomorrow's annual picnic of the Retail Grocers' Association and their friends.

The secretary's enthusiastic voice continued.

"The tents are all up and everything is ready. Evidently this spot is exempt from bad weather. Tell everybody to get ready for the time of the year tomorrow."

The special train will leave the Burlington depot for Camp Tate at 8:30 tomorrow morning, and everything points to a record attendance.

"Free coffee, cream and sugar, tell em!" was the last word of Secretary Taggart, who wants the public to understand that a good cup of coffee with the "trimmins" awaits all who bring their luncheons, and that sandwiches can be secured on the grounds.

"Most marvelous trained dog in the world!" Trainer's name a secret. Big balloon ascension, daring trapeze performance in sky—tell 'em all about it." Taggart's telephone message ended with a shout.

"He wants you to pay for the message," confided the operator a moment later. "Right!"

The complete program, with the prizes, follows:

Ball Game—North Side vs. South Side. Prizes, winning side, sack of flour each; losing side, five cigars each; umpire, broom.

Girls' Foot Race, 15 years and under. Prizes, first, dozen Samoset crackers; second, fifteen bars laundry soap; third, dozen Nickel Biscuits; fourth, two packages coffee.

Boys' Foot Race, 15 years and under. Prizes, first, dozen cans beans; second, eight packages English cookies; third, one-half dozen cans beans; fourth, one-half dozen 5c lemon snaps.

Ball throwing into banana crate, three throws each. Free for all, ladies only. Prizes, first, six packages tea; second, twelve packages (Continued on Page 6, Col. 3)

GROWTH OF NATIONAL UNITY REGENERATING THE TURKISH EMPIRE

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright, 1915, by the United Press.)
(Copyrighted in Great Britain.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 26.—(Delayed.)—The greatest fleet ever assembled for purposes of attack has scarcely scratched the defenses of the Dardanelles. The possibility that the strait will be forced by the Anglo-French warships and land forces is too remote for consideration, and back of this feeling of confidence of superiority of Turkish arms is developing a new spirit of national unity that is regenerating the Turkish empire.

Briefly put, these were the statements made to me today by Field Marshal Von Der Goltz of the German army, who, as military instructor of the Turkish army for years preceding the Balkan wars, won for himself the title "Father of the Modern Turkish Army." To the intimate knowledge thus gained of the fighting Turk of today, he has since the first of December added his personal observations of the present operations in his capacity as military aid to His Imperial Majesty, the Sultan. It was in this capacity as the greatest authority on the modern Turkish army that I had asked him to explain through the United Press the progress of the Dardanelles operations and the sudden strength displayed by the Turkish army, following its admittedly poor showing during the two Balkan wars.

"Entirely aside from the valor of this new Turkish army of today, there are other elements of strength in the defense of the Dardanelles which I am certain the public as a whole has so far failed to appreciate," said the field marshal. "I doubt if the world at large knows that up to the present moment not a single ship of the allied fleets has ever passed the first line of mines.

Defenses Modern
"Back of this mine sentinel, as it were, lie whole mine fields and submarine defenses of the most modern and perfected types. Even were a ship able to elude the first line of mines, the chances that she could pass the real mine defenses that follow are so infinitesimally small as not to be calculable.

"At the very moment when the world at large believes the Turkish army weakest because of the reverses of the two Balkan wars, it has come forward suddenly with a degree of strength and resistance never attained in the past. This is due to two things instilled into it by the young Turks generation of today—national unity and sentiment for national existence.

"Broadly speaking, the Turkish army of today is for the first time really a Turkish army and is for the very first time a Turkish army fighting for the existence of a Turkish nation."

INDIAN HELD FOR DEATH OF ANOTHER FOUND ON TRACK

Wounds on Face Thought Not to Have Been Caused by Train Which Mangled Body

CLAY LAST SEEN WITH VICTIM

Body Was Later Found on the Railroad Track with Limbs Severed

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 3.—Death of Walter Windblow, Indian farmer living near Tomah, was laid to human agency and not to accident today when Jim Clay, another Tomah Indian, was taken to Tomah by Sheriff George Boss, for a preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter. He was to be arraigned before Judge Ernest Bartels late this afternoon.

Windblow's body was found on the Milwaukee railroad tracks near Tomah, July 20. It was badly mangled, and it was believed that the Indian had been struck and killed by the train. Relatives, however, refused to accept the accident hypothesis, and insisted that Windblow had been killed before the train struck the body. Their charges came to the attention of District Attorney T. P. Abel, and he ordered Clay taken into custody when he discovered that Windblow had been last seen in his company. The charge of manslaughter was laid against the prisoner when examination of Windblow's body brought to light a number of wounds on the face which it was not believed could have been caused by the train. Whether wounds which could have caused the death were on the body could not be detected because the trunk had been badly mangled.

Clay has refused to talk since his arrest by Sheriff Boss at Tomah. Indians about Tomah are much excited over the case. Windblow is said to have been a favorite with the tribal community.

FRENCH SOLDIERS GIVEN A VACATION

PARIS, Aug. 2.—A sure sign that France anticipates a long war and at least another winter of trench fighting is seen in the fact that the army is now "taking a vacation." Trains arriving here today brought a large number of men who have been doing the heavy work along the fighting line. They are being allowed four days at home, the first furlough they have had since the beginning of the war.

LATIN REPUBLICS ASKED TO AID IN MEXICAN ARMS BAN

Lansing Plans Embargo of Munitions for Conference with South American Ambassadors

SUCCESS DEPENDENT ON HELP

Conclusion Reached Unofficially Carranza Will Be Recognized Barring Reverses

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—South and Central American co-operation with the United States in keeping arms and ammunition out of Mexico, except for the benefit of the recognized government-to-be, is the object Secretary Lansing will seek at his scheduled conference Thursday with Ambassadors Naon, Dagama, and Suarez, and Ministers Calderon, DePena, and Mendez, respectively of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay, and Guatemala, it was learned on excellent authority today.

The other Pan-American republics, Cuba included, will not be overlooked, it was said, but for the initial negotiations the three ambassadors, as the highest diplomatic officials of the Pan-American group, and the three ranking ministers, were chosen to clear away all obstacles they consider likely to interfere with the execution of the plan.

The Washington administration has realized all along, officials admitted that an arms embargo would be ineffective if American supplies could be trans-shipped from Cuba, Central and South America into Mexico.

Unless General Carranza should meet with some unexpected and serious reverse, it was considered a foregone conclusion that recognition would be accorded to him. Lansing denied, indeed, that President Wilson had written to him definitely of his intention to accord recognition within two weeks, it was generally understood this was substantially the plan, whether or not it actually had been put in writing.

Carranza in Capital
Confirmation was received of reports that the Carranzistas had reoccupied Mexico City and all accounts agreed that the first chief was rushing food to the capital as fast as possible.

Moral Support Wanted
Before according "moral support" to any action in Mexico, the United States wants the "moral support" of the Pan-American republics, it was declared here today on good authority.

This, it was said, was why Secretary Lansing had called the conference.

The United States will profit materially by joint action, it was pointed out. It will avoid the imputation of selfish interest, it will make the six Latin-American nations share the responsibility for the plan's success or failure, and it will give whatever action is taken the complexion of a joint Pan-American move to end conditions which have caused grave embarrassments on both American continents.

Action, it was believed, will follow the conference very quickly.

Besides the Mexican, it was expected the conference would consider conditions in Haiti.

Villa Crushed
GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 3.—Villa's "flying column" under General Fierro, was completely destroyed yesterday between Irapuato and Queretaro, following a defeat at Pachuca, Vera Cruz advices to the Carranza consul reported today.

The column was caught between the detachment sent south by General Obregon and the pursuing Dieguez army.

Obregon reported he had captured 3,000,000 rounds of ammunition and an immense quantity of other supplies in a battle south of Torreón.

BANDITS-RANGERS FIGHT IS FATAL

Fifteen Killed in a Pitched Battle Between Rangers and Raiders Near Border

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 3.—One soldier, one Texas ranger and thirteen bandits were killed, and two soldiers and two rangers were wounded in a fight with Mexican raiders at San Benito, early today, reports here today said. The raiders, it is thought, may be the same ones who yesterday fired on an automobile party near here.

The bandits are believed to be Carranzistas, stealing horses for the Carranza army.

JAPANESE CABINET MAY NOT RESIGN

TOKIO, Aug. 3.—Premier Okuma and his cabinet may reconsider their resignations, it was reported in government circles today. The elder statesmen have recommended to the emperor that he decline to accept the resignations and ask the Okuma ministry to remain in office.

DRASTIC STEP IS DEMANDED TO BRING ENGLAND TO TERMS

Exporters Ask for Practical Ultimatum in Answer to Refusal to Modify Orders in Council

MODIFICATION OR EMBARGO PLAN

Exporters Would Call Special Session of Congress to Place Ban on Exports to Allies

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—An ultimatum or a message forcible enough to amount practically to one, is what a strong contingent of American exporters want from President Wilson in answer to Great Britain's refusal of a modification in her orders in council.

Expressions here today by these interests' representatives left no doubt that a combined effort will be made to force the chief executive's hand, not only with a view to freedom of the seas for their shipments, but to accomplish it in the shortest possible order.

With the latest note not yet officially made public, the exporters' plans were not fully formulated in detail, but of their general purpose there was no question.

The cotton growers are the strongest single group behind the movement. The meat packers were next in importance. With the interests behind them, individually smaller but formidable in the aggregate, representatives of this combination expressed confidence of putting their program through in one way or another.

Their plan in brief is to demand that the allies cease all interference with their shipments to neutral European ports. In the event of a refusal, they call for an extra session of congress to put an embargo on American shipments of all kinds to any of the allied nations.

Their business has already suffered so seriously, they say, that they do not propose to wait indefinitely for British compliance with their wishes. It is for this reason that they seek a time limit—amounting to an ultimatum—in the president's next message to London.

Failing to get an extra session, they admit there will be nothing for them to do but await the regular re-assembling of congress in December. They declare they will make their fight then, however, if compelled to wait so long, with all possible energy.

Publicity Campaign Opened
Arrangements were known today to be already in hand for an aggressive publicity campaign to promote their plans. Their view is that Germany's submarine activities by involving the loss of American lives overshadowed the damage done by the allies' blockade, which meant loss only of property.

They make the point, however, that Germany, in practice, if not in theory, bowed to American wishes relative to submarine warfare, while the British refuse the slightest concession either in theory or in practice.

The purpose of the press campaign which was to impress on the American public mind.

It is not pretended that the proposed embargo is a new idea. Its advocates say they are going to make it a live issue now, however, and unless the British come to terms quickly to make a last ditch struggle for it.

Note Highly Important
America's next note to Great Britain will be the most important the United States has written since the European war began, diplomats said today.

On it will depend, it was pointed out, not only America's relations with Great Britain, but also with Germany.

HAITI SAFE UNDER PROTECTION OF U.S.

Virtual Protectorate Exists in Stormy Republic as Caperton Hopes for Lasting Order

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—What virtually is an American protectorate exists in Haiti already, it was admitted in government circles here today.

Officials said it probably would be giving good results if it were not that Haitian politicians fear vengeance from rival native groups as soon as it is withdrawn. They were hopeful, however, that Admiral Caperton would succeed in bringing the groups together and establishing a new government.

To whomsoever the presidency may be given, it was predicted that the United States forces will not be withdrawn this time until a definite understanding has been reached for a more or less complete American supervision of the republic's affairs.

GALLWITZ ATTEMPTS TO CATCH RETIRING RUSSIANS IN POLAND

FALL OF WARSAW DELAYED BY EFFORT TO TAKE ARMIES

Capture of Polish Capital Secondary Matter for German General Staff

WOULD PREVENT RECUPERATION

Fall of Brest Litovsk Would Be More Serious Than the Entry of the Capital

BY J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The delay in the fall of Warsaw is due to the far wider ambition of capturing the Russian field armies, which is the dominant objective of the German general staff. If Warsaw's occupation were the sole consideration of the Germans, or even if it were one of several principal objectives, the Polish capital would now be in possession of the Kaiser.

The capture of the entrance of the Teutons into Warsaw, while marking one of the most triumphal offensive campaigns in all history, will yet, in itself, be but an incident of the Polish operations. The capture of capitals has an immense moral effect in war, but the capture of armies brings wars to a far quicker end. The Germans, therefore are not wasting their strength by concentrating against Warsaw, and permitting the Russian army to move off at will to prepare new defenses further to the rear.

The Germans undoubtedly are planning to press hard continuously against the Russians and not to abandon their offensive after the Grand Duke Nicholas has retired to his reserve positions organized about Brest Litovsk. It is very important for the main German objective against Russia that the Slavs be allowed no time to recuperate when they have fallen back from the Vistula line. Therefore, the German general staff must be far more concerned with placing the forces advantageously for following up the Vistula victory, than it is with actually gaining that victory.

The Russians show they appreciate this fact by the appeal they are making to France and England to develop an offensive in the west to distract the Germans. It is not that the Russian general staff hopes thus to save Warsaw at the last moment. Rather, the Russians must now be concentrating their attention on how they are going to keep their new Brest Litovsk line intact.

Brest Litovsk is the central munitions station for all Poland. Its loss will be a calamity to the Russians more severely felt from a military standpoint even, than the loss of Warsaw. The Brest Litovsk line is not as strong as the Vistula defenses. If the Germans can capture the latter, the former should not present insuperable obstacles. In fact the present struggle perhaps may be more properly described as the campaign for Brest Litovsk rather than the campaign for Warsaw.

MRS. W. J. DUDLEY DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Prominent Clubwoman and Wife of West Salem Banker Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke

Mrs. Wilbur I. Dudley, prominent clubwoman of West Salem, and wife of Wilbur I. Dudley, president of the La Crosse County Bank of West Salem, died at La Mesa, Cal., this morning following a stroke of paralysis July 21, according to word received by friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley and their daughter Phoebe left about a month ago for a visit with relatives in the western states. They were with their daughter, Mrs. Lucius Porter, at the time of Mrs. Dudley's death. Mrs. Porter, formerly a teacher in the La Crosse high school, and her husband had just returned from China.

Mrs. Dudley had reached the age of 65 years. She was born in Massachusetts, and was a resident of West Salem for more than forty years. She was closely connected with the social life of the village and was an active member of the West Salem Congregational church. Surviving are Mrs. Lucius Porter, Miss Phoebe Dudley and Miss Jennie Dudley, daughters, and Walter, George and Sherman Dudley, sons. The body will be brought to West Salem where burial will take place at the Hamilton cemetery.

GERMANS ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE FORCE FLEEING WARSAW

Army of Three Hundred Thousand Drive Southward to Cut Railroad Leading to Petrograd

RUSSIAN POSITIONS REPORTED GOOD

Petrograd Hopes Russian Tenacity Will Offset Superior Numbers of Germans

PETROGRAD, Aug. 3.—Three hundred thousand Germans, under General Von Gallwitz, have begun a terrific drive southward in an attempt to cut the Warsaw-Petrograd railroad by crossing the River Bug at Vyskov, thirty miles northeast of Warsaw.

Their aim is to seize the railway at Tlusec, twenty miles northeast of Warsaw, and surround a part of the Russian armies still holding the salient points around Warsaw. Von Gallwitz is equipped with heavy guns of all calibres and has been supplied with fresh troops, presumably from the western battle front. He evidently had been ordered to batter in by quick, smashing blows the northern defenses to the capital, and force the city's fall without further delay.

The official dispatches today placed the advance guards of this German force southeast of Olsaki, on the railway leading to Vyskov, and thence over the Bug, but did not indicate their exact distance from the river. Military men, however, pointed out that if the Germans have the unlimited supplies of ammunition credited to them in Berlin, they will be able to continue indefinitely their terrific drives, eating through Warsaw's northern defenses mile by mile until the comparatively small force of Russians still defending the city is compelled to retire.

The war office declared today that the Russian positions along the Bug near Vyskov are good, and that there is no ground for the belief that the Germans can crush their way through to the Warsaw-Petrograd railway by a short campaign.

To the contrary, it was declared possible that Russian tenacity and stamina may yet prove a match to the enemy's superiority in weight of guns and men.

Seven Die in Air Attack
Official dispatches today dealing with the German air attack on Warsaw last Saturday said that seven persons were killed and fourteen wounded. The aviators attempted to destroy the river bridges connecting Warsaw with its suburb Praga, on the right bank of the Vistula, a move that might have hindered the retreat of the last of the Russian defenders. Bombs aimed at the bridges fell harmlessly into the river.

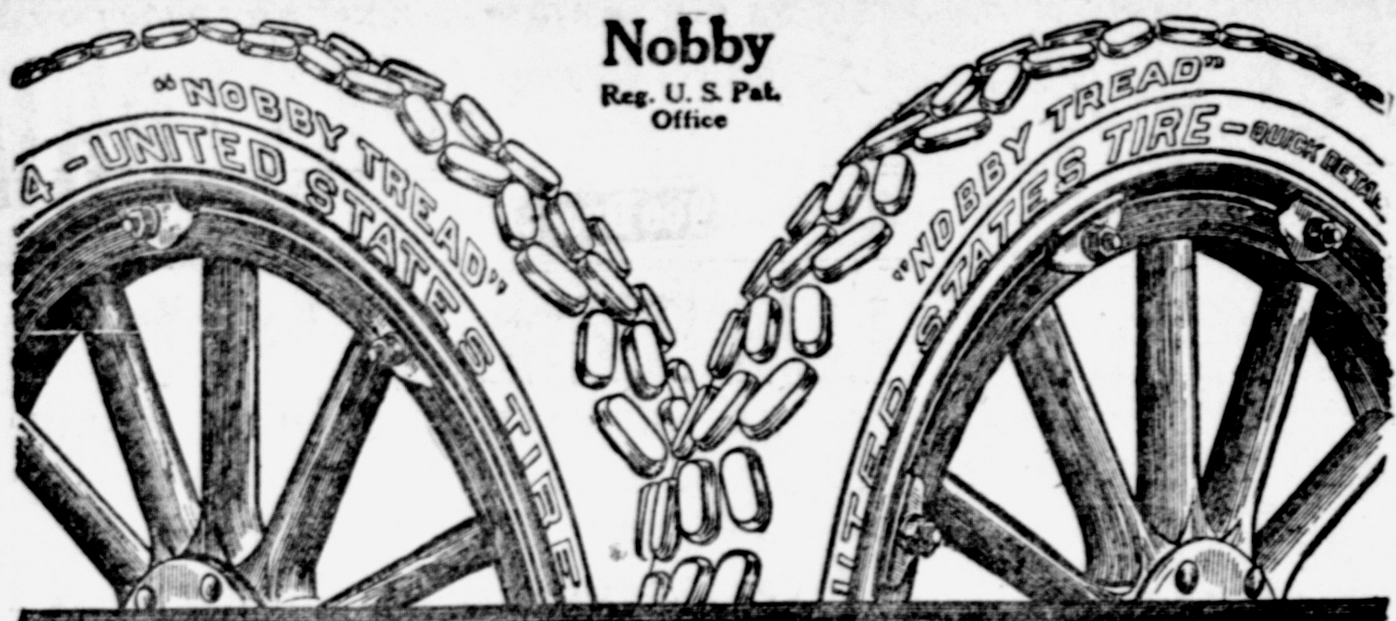

Military men turned their attention almost exclusively to the movement on Warsaw from the north, along the Narew and through Vyskov. The Germans appear to have been definitely checked in their attacks on the Blonkie-Gora-Kalwarka line, extending from west to southeast of the city. The actions around Invarogod and in the Lublin district are declared to be progressing satisfactorily, though the Russians are withdrawing at some places.

Mitau Captured
BERLIN, Aug. 3.—Mitau, the capital of the Russian province of Courland and twenty-five miles southwest of Riga, has been occupied by German troops under Gen. Von Buelow, according to the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff. Official dispatches this afternoon said the Russians are continuing their retreat in this region.

Prosecute Munitions Shortage
PETROGRAD, Aug. 3.—The Russian duma today called upon the government to prosecute "those criminally responsible for the shortage of ammunition for the Russian armies, regardless of their position."

The demand was contained in a vigorous resolution, urging the government not to conclude peace with Russia's enemies "until victory is complete" and bespeaking the assistance of the entire population to supply the means for continuing the great struggle.

Members who spoke in support of the resolution expressed their indignation that lack of ammunition had compelled the Russian armies to retire from Galicia, and finally to prepare for the evacuation of Warsaw. They expressed the conviction, however, that the existing shortcomings in the production of munitions will be speedily removed by the new department organized along lines similar to those laid down by the British and French governments.

GERMANY UNDECIDED MILITIA CONTESTS WHETHER OR NOT TO ANSWER NOTE

Everything Seems Just Real to Them.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Great Country of Make-Believe.

"I MUST tell you kiddies about the great country of Make-Believe," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn came to him for the bedtime story they always loved to hear. "It's such a great country, and so many people live in it at one time or other. In fact, children, there is no end to that wide country of Make-Believe. You can go on and on and on and never stop, but just keep going, and you will never come to the end of it. For, you see, the great country of Make-Believe is located in your mind."

"There are some people who do not live in it very much, for they haven't a great deal of what we call imagination. But little boys and girls live in it most all the time, and I will show you just how they do it."

"Supposing that Jack here plays with the other boys that he is a bold pirate and sails the raging main. Then he and his jolly though naughty pirate pretending mates are in the Land of Make-Believe. And while they are there everything seems just as real to them as if they were really happening."

"And supposing that Evelyn and some of the other little girls who live near her play that they are grand ladies with great big titles and that some prince gives a very fine ball in their honor. Well, don't you see, children, that while they are playing this very fine game they are not Evelyn and the other little girls at all, but are instead these fine ladies they are pretending to be? Oh, it is a very charming game, this game of make believe! But children enjoy it more than does anybody else. You will find out why when you are older."

"But I am sorry to say that some parts of the great land of Make-Believe are not good for children nor for anybody else to dwell in. For instance, if Jack is playing some interesting game and mamma calls him to perform some task, and he makes believe he didn't hear her, why, that is an awfully naughty part of the Land of Make-Believe to be in, and he ought to get out of it."

"And if Evelyn doesn't feel like going to school some fine morning after the long vacation days are over, and feels just a little ill, and makes believe she is sicker than she really is, and remains in bed, why, that is one of the worst parts of the Land of Make-Believe to dwell in. And the best thing to be done in a case like that is for mamma to give her pretending little girl some real medicine."

"But there's one part of the Land of Make-Believe that is good for everybody, children and parents, to dwell in. If you're not really happy make believe that you are. Then the first thing you know it will be really so."

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

BURIED TREASURE

BY MOLLY McMASTER

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

David Gordon was digging a hole in the earth in which to sink the fourth upright of his rustic arbor, when his spade hit and exposed to view a battered old tin box. David was projected back in his memory to the days of playing pirate and of buried treasure. No healthy boy of his day had denied himself the joy of assuming the role of pirate and hiding his stolen booty in the earth.

When he had removed the rusty lid of the box, David made a discovery which amused him not a little. Until now, he had not known that girls, also, had played at the entrancing game. The bold buccaneer who had hid this particular box had been a female Captain Kidd. A sadly mutilated doll, a string of blue glass beads and a tiny leather purse were the contents of the concealed receptacle.

Inside the purse were several pieces of paper on which were scratched hieroglyphics which, no doubt, were codes of some ancient and extinct secret of childhood. He examined the paper carefully and in time managed to decipher a name and a date. The former was "Barbara Folsom" and the latter was "1900, August."

"She must be a woman of at least twenty-five now," mused David, computing quickly. "She is probably the mother of a Barbara junior by this time."

He put aside the box and proceeded with his digging. The name Barbara lingered in his mind, however, and, in some vague way, it seemed to suggest something familiar to him. It even seemed as if he had seen the name Barbara Folsom in print, but he could not recall when or where.

"It looks as if romance were not entirely extinct," he laughed. "I'd like to find that girl and send her the box for a birthday gift." This seemed so utterly absurd that he laughed still more decidedly. For aught he knew, Barbara Folsom, formerly a pirate, might now be doing missionary service in South Africa or the far East.

But David continued to wonder where it was he had seen that name. Social uplift, was it, or what? Not so long ago, he told himself, and in some rather prominent connection. He hoped she was not too awfully advanced. Theoretically, he was seen on the sort of woman who does little else save love her husband. He wondered if Barbara could be a peace conference delegate or, perhaps, a militant suffragette! Surely not—heaven forbid! Not a girl who had once been a pirate and buried a cast-off doll and a string of blue beads!

"And it seems to me that it is only recently and in some magazine or other that I have seen that name," he reflected.

When he had finished setting the uprights for dinner, still bearing with him the not-to-be-forgotten name of Barbara Folsom, it seemed to have come to stay and he could not banish it. Barbara Folsom—who was she? He found his answer sooner than he expected. It was the very name itself under the title of the very first piece of magazine fiction which he had read.

"After all she's only a well-known woman," he sighed regretfully, for David did not take kindly to literary women.

Still, for some reason he could hardly fathom, he was prompted to write to the magazine office and ask Barbara Folsom for her address and the privilege of calling on her. He would find out, once for all, whether or not she was fact or fiction. There was certainly no harm in humoring his curiosity to that extent.

Barbara Folsom not only replied by mail, but intimated graciously that she should be glad to see him at her home on the following afternoon. Incidentally, she confessed that she was Mrs. John Fraser in private life.

Without precisely knowing why, David was rather disappointed over the immediate outcome, but he resolved to carry out his original intention.

Still, he felt no slight degree of uncertainty as to the wisdom of his procedure as he stood before the entrance of a modest apartment house in the Washington square neighborhood. He carried a bag in which were the state's treasure and he wondered what memories it would inspire in the mind of the one to whom it had belonged so many years ago. He had quite resigned himself to the existence of a Barbara junior who would probably regard the battered doll with scornful disdain.

David was ushered into a cozy little room by Mrs. Fraser herself. She proved to be a delightful little matron, but he could not find in her the faintest resemblance to his conception of what the child pirate of long ago should be like.

"Barbara Folsom is only a pen name," she explained, after she had heard his story. "I borrow the names of my friends to lend dignity to my work."

"Then I have not found my pirate after all," he sighed rather distressedly.

"Lo—she comes!" laughed the little matron, rising and taking into her motherly arms a young woman who had entered just in time to hear David's wistful observation. "This is Barbara Folsom. I use her name oftener than any other nowadays because I love her best of all. Barbara, this is Mr. David Gordon of whom I told you."

And almost before he had time to

STATE OF WISCONSIN—In Circuit Court for La Crosse County.—The Security Savings Bank of La Crosse, a corporation, Plaintiff, vs. Charles M. Dow, Edward Lyons, Catherine Lyons, his wife, B. I. Bailey, and M. F. Bailey, and the Security Savings Bank of La Crosse, a corporation, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, made and entered by the above named court on the 25th day of July, 1914, in a certain action then pending wherein the Security Savings Bank of La Crosse, a corporation, is plaintiff, and Charles M. Dow, Edward Lyons, Catherine Lyons, his wife, B. I. Bailey, M. F. Bailey and the Security Savings Bank of La Crosse, a corporation, are defendants, I, George Ritter, as Sheriff of La Crosse County, appointed in and by said judgment for that purpose, will expose at public sale and sell at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, on the 14th day of September, 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the west front door of the Court House in the City of La Crosse, La Crosse County, Wisconsin, the following described premises and real estate in said judgment described, and in and by said judgment ordered to be sold, situate, lying and being in the city and county of La Crosse, State of Wisconsin, to-wit:

The north forty-two and one-half (42½) feet of lot number one (1) in block number seventeen (17), of Dunn, Dousman & Cameron's addition to the City of La Crosse, La Crosse County, Wisconsin, together with the buildings and appurtenances thereon situated.

Dated this 27th day of July, A. D. 1915.

GEORGE RITTER, Sheriff.

OLAF R. SKAAR, Attorney for Plaintiff.

recover his self-possession a charming young woman, with merry eyes and a most unpractical expression, held out her hand in friendly greeting.

"And now I will see about some tea," bustled Mrs. Fraser, leaving them together.

Barbara was immensely interested in the recovered treasure. She welcomed the sorry-looking doll as if she were a long-lost relative and her bright eyes moistened at sight of the little purse and its cabalistic slips of paper. She hugged the string of beads to her heart and then clasped it about her slender neck.

"So you live in our old home-stead," she said. "And I suppose you have a crew of little pirates who are hiding their treasure as I did so long ago?"

"I am not a married man," he answered simply, "but I do live in your old home."

She sighed—rather wistfully, David thought.

"This is all most romantic," chirruped Mrs. Fraser returning with a tea cart bearing the fragrant Oolong and cakes. "I have just had an inspiration for a new story. The heroine is to be a youthful Captain Kidd in petticoats and she is to be captured by the man who finds her buried treasure. Isn't that perfectly great?"

"It certainly is," agreed David soberly.

DAN DIEGO FAIR

FILM AT BIJOU

To those in this city who have not seen the wonderful gem of a fair at San Diego, Cal., this year and to those who will not have the opportunity to go to sunny California during this year, motion pictures will tell in some measure the beauty of the wonderful San Diego exposition. Manager Burford spent several days there, and when he had the opportunity to contract for the three reels of pictures produced by Stimpson, the official exposition photographer, and endorsed by President Ripley of the Santa Fe railway system, he considered himself lucky in being able to show the Bijou patrons something of the wonderful fair in the city farthest south in the United States.

These pictures will appear for one day only this week at the Bijou, Wednesday, matinee and evening, and will be shown in addition to the "Who Pays?" pictures which appear every Wednesday. This makes a big varied program of six reels, which will be shown at the usual admission price.

WILSON RELEASED

TO RETURN HOME

BERLIN, via The Hague, Aug. 3.—Clerk Wilson of the American consulate, who was arrested by the Berlin police on the charge of falsely certifying to a passport by use of which an Englishman escaped from Germany, was today released through the efforts of Ambassador Gerard. One condition of the release, it was understood, was that Wilson must return immediately to America.

LOOSE TALK IS INVESTIGATED

Perhaps the story, copied from the Milwaukee Sentinel, in which among others the names of George H. Gordon and E. J. Kneen were mentioned in connection with foolish charges regarding a lobby for a pending jitney bill, may serve the good end of clarifying loose rumors about the present session of the legislature.

Talk of lobbying, as though that legalized activity were reprehensible, and of money as an influence in legislation, is utterly foolish and unfounded, and our democracy will not appear to its best advantage until we learn to disagree vigorously without indulging in suspicion and abuse. If Messrs. Gordon and Kneen, or either of them, appeared at Madison as registered lobbyists, their occupation was perfectly legitimate. If they merely expressed casual opinions concerning a pending measure of considerable public importance they were not lobbyists, and but indulged in a privilege of citizenship that may even be regarded in the light of a public duty.

Citizens who disagree with Mr. Gordon upon many public and especially political questions value him as one who exerts an active and useful influence in this community and as a staunch supporter of many activities the value of which in ways both material and sentimental is recognized. That Mr. Kneen, a strong progressive, and Mr. Gordon, an equally staunch conservative, can stand together in support of a legislative measure, suggests that legislation and politics are not always synonymous, and if either officially or as private citizens, they are using their influence for a jitney law which, without interfering with legitimate public service, is a safeguard against reckless enterprises by irresponsible people, the effort is for the good of the commonwealth.

THE PASSING OF A PIONEER

Rarely is modesty an accompaniment of the characteristics that made the late A. W. Pettibone a strong man. He was rugged with the substantiality that the rigors of pioneer days bred into our pathfinders. He had the courage and efficiency of the vanishing group who battled with elemental forces in building industries in the frontier wilderness. Stern, silent, purposeful—sufficient unto the wide affairs that engaged him—there was underlying the force of character implied by these qualities a sensitiveness which developed modesty as the outstanding phase of Mr. Pettibone's nature.

In the silent hush of the consistent man of business there lay, unsuspected even by his intimates in the days of his industrial activity, another side of human nature, and perhaps to this side belonged the sentimental regard for the river which had been the highway for his merchandise that led him to turn that way when seeking an endowment for the posterity of his city. Men told him that the tangled, low-lying island, subject to overflow, could not be made a park, but with the indomitable purpose and "backbone" of his kind, he laid his hand to the axe and mace, and again the wilderness blossomed.

We have no praises to lavish upon Mr. Pettibone. He who scorned laudation in the strength of prime manhood would not thank us for it from the grave. Such men find their gratification in watching others lay hand to the world's work developed under their guidance; they take their reward in terms of usefulness to which their benefices are devoted. Did we essay a eulogy to our departed fellow citizen, we would make it a moving picture of the procession which, enduring as the city, moves in an endless chain of happiness to and fro between thousands of honest homes and the splendid park which crowns our civic graces.

FREEDOM AND LOOSE TALKING

An anonymous writer, evidently a man of education, finds fault with the TRIBUNE'S criticism of the Chicago Staats-Zeitung's assertion that President Wilson's attitude toward Germany is controlled by a secret treaty between the United States and England. This writer makes our comment on the Chicago paper's utterance the basis of a bitter attack, in which he errs in presuming that we deny the right of the Staats-Zeitung to disagree with or adversely criticize the administration.

We not only concede every citizen the right to disagree with government policies, and to adversely comment upon them; we demand that right for every citizen, for ourselves. But a free press should be a responsible pen, and we deny the right of any citizen to base upon unprovable and in fact impossible conclusions an accusation of treason against the president of the United States.

Any intelligent citizen would be interested in learning by what process any "secret treaty" can be entered into by the United States. We are ruled by the constitution. All treaties must be ratified by the United States senate. No agreement made with any foreign power is binding on the nation unless it is so ratified. A president who entered into any secret pact, written or verbal, with any power, would bind nobody but himself.

If there is really a "secret treaty" with England, made in a former administration, the United States senate must have sanctioned it and must have broken law and precedent by keeping the fact out of the records.

And every senator must have maintained strict silence about it ever since. Anybody who can believe all that is welcome to do so.

If there is no such treaty legally binding on the president—and of course there isn't, and couldn't be—then the paper mentioned has, in effect, accused the president of treason. That is a grave charge, and those making it are liable to get into trouble.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

When the Sun Comes Out
There is never a rain that will raise such a Cain
In the sky that the clouds won't finally clear,
And the beating hail and the rain-drops fall
And the sunny, peaceful blue appear.
Then you raise in your heart a glad-some shout
As the sun comes out.

There is never a man, when he says he can,
No matter how stormy his troubles seem,
Who can not win if he'll just begin
To make all the storms a forgotten dream;
And he'll smile and laugh as they're put to rout
When the sun comes out.

So why be glum when the world looks bum
And the fates act hard and all life seems wrong?
You can cure luck's ills with the good cheer pills
If you'll face your cares with a smile and song.
And they'll vanish in joy as ill fates you flout
When the sun comes out.

How He Made Good
It was at the private theatricals, and the young man wished to compliment his hostess, saying:
"Madam, you played your part splendidly. It fits you to perfection."

"I'm afraid not. A young and pretty woman is needed for that part," said the smiling hostess.
"But, madam, you have positively proved the contrary."

Thatch Unnecessary
This little incident has been told of Thomas Bone, "the sailors' missionary":
"Seeing him approaching one day, one of a group of sailors announced his intention of having some fun. He stepped forward and removed his hat, revealing a perfectly smooth crown, and asked:
"Can you tell me why my head is so bald, while all my companions have plenty of hair?"

"I don't know," was the smiling reply, "unless the reason given me the other day by a farmer would apply, that an empty barn is not worth shingling."—National Food Magazine.

Force of Association
While the owner of the touring car dismounted, during necessary repairs, the young front wheel timidly asked the old back wheel:
"Don't you get weary of the social whirl—revolving and revolving?"

His Proof
At a political convention in one of the western states two rival delegates got into a serious personal dispute.
"Oh, you're crazy!" shouted one.
"I'm not crazy!" denied the other.
"But you are crazy!" vociferated the first.
"I can prove I'm not crazy, and that's more than you can do," came back the rejoinder.
"Let's see you do it, then."
Whereupon the man who was accused of being crazy pulled from an inside pocket his discharge papers from a nearby insane asylum.

"It has been a trying position for you," Harrowby said sympathetically. "And you've done nobly. I'm sure your troubles are all out of the way now. With the necklace worry gone—"

He paused. For across the lobby toward them walked Henry Trimmer, and his walk was that of a man who is going somewhere.

"Ah—Mister Harrowby," he boomed, "and Mr. Minot. I've been looking for you both. It will interest you to know that I had a wireless message from Lord Harrowby this noon."

"A wireless?" cried Minot.
"Yes," Trimmer laughed. "Not such a fool as you think him, Lord Harrowby isn't. Managed to send me a wireless from Tarragona despite the attentions of your friends. So I went out there this afternoon and brought George back with me."

Silently Minot and Harrowby stared at each other.
"Yes," Mr. Trimmer went on, "George is back again—back under the direction of little me, a publicity man with no grass under his feet. I've come to give you gentlemen your choice. You either see Lord Harrowby tomorrow morning at ten o'clock and recognize his claims, or I'll have you both thrown into jail for kidnapping."

"Tomorrow morning at ten," Harrowby repeated gloomily.
"That's what I said," replied Mr. Trimmer blithely. "How about it, little brother?"

"Minot—what would you advise?"
"See him," sighed Minot.
"Very well," Harrowby's tone was resigned. "I presume I'd better."

"Ah—coming to your senses, aren't you?" said Trimmer. "I hope we aren't spoiling the joyous wedding-day. But then, what I say is, if the girl's marrying you just for the title—"

Harrowby leaped to his feet.
"You haven't been asked for an opinion," he said.
"No, of course not. Don't get excited. I'll see you both in the morning at ten." And Mr. Trimmer strolled elegantly away.

Harrowby turned hopefully to Minot.
"At ten in the morning," he repeated. "Old chap, what are we going to do at ten in the morning?"
"I don't know," smiled Minot. "But if past performances mean anything, we'll win."

CHAPTER XVI
Who's Who in England?

"What's the matter with you?"
Seated in the lobby of the De la Pax on Sunday morning, Mr. Trimmer turned a disapproving eye upon the lank Englishman at his side as he made this query. And his question was not without good foundation. For the aspirant to the title of Lord Harrowby was at the moment a jelly quaking with fear.

"Fawney meeting you after all these years," said poor old George in an uncertain treble.
"Come, come," cried Mr. Trimmer, "put a little more authority into your voice. You can't walk up and claim your rights with your knees dancing the tango. This is the moment we've been looking forward to. Act determined. Walk into that room upstairs as though you were walking into Rakedale Hall to take charge of it."

"Allan, don't you know me—I'm your brother George," went on the Englishman, intent on rehearsing.

"More life to it," said Trimmer. "Put the fire into it. You're not expecting a thrashing, you know. You are expecting the title and recognition that belongs to you. I wish I was the real Lord Harrowby. I guess I'd show 'em a thing or two."

"I wish you was," agreed poor old George sadly. "Somehow, I don't seem to have the spirit I used to have."

"A good point," commented Trimmer. "Years of wrongs and suffering have made you timid. I'll call that to their attention. Five minutes of ten, your lordship."

His lordship groaned.
"All right, I'm ready," he said. "What is it I say as I go in? Oh, yes—" He stepped into the elevator.

"Fawney seeing you after all these years."

The negro elevator boy was somewhat startled at this greeting, but regained his composure and started the car. Mr. Trimmer and his "proposition" shot up toward their great opportunity.

In Lord Harrowby's suite that gentleman sat in considerable nervousness, awaiting the undesired encounter. With him sat Miss Meyrick and her father, whom he had thought it necessary to invite to witness the ordeal. Mr. Richard Minot uneasily paced the floor, avoiding as much as possible the glances of Miss Meyrick's brown eyes. Ten o'clock was upon him, and Mr. Minot was no nearer a plan of action than he had been the preceding night.

Every good press agent is not without a live theatrical sense, and Mr. Trimmer was no exception. He left his trembling claimant in the entrance hall and strolled into the room.

"Good morning," he said brightly. "Here we are, on time to the minute. Ah—I beg your pardon."

Lord Harrowby performed brief introductions, which Mr. Trimmer effusively acknowledged. Then he turned dramatically toward his lordship.
"Out here in the hallway stands a poor broken creature," he began. "Your own flesh and blood, Allan Harrowby." Obviously Mr. Trimmer had prepared speeches for himself as well as for poor old George. "For twenty odd and impecunious years," he went on, "this man has been denied his just heritage. We are here this morning to perform a duty—"

"My dear fellow," broke in Harrowby wearily, "why should you inflict oratory upon us? Bring in this—er—gentleman."

"That I will," replied Trimmer heartily. "And when you have heard his story, digested his evidence, I am sure—"

"Yes, yes. Bring him in." Mr. Trimmer stepped to the door. He beckoned. A very reluctant figure shuffled in. George's face was green with fright. His knees rattled together. He made, altogether, a ludicrous picture, and Mr. Trimmer himself noted this with sinking heart.

"Allow me," said Trimmer theatrically, "George, Lord Harrowby."

George cleared his throat, but did not succeed in dislodging his heart, which was there at the moment.

"Fawney seeing you after all these years," he mumbled weakly, to no one in particular.

"Speak up," said Spencer Meyrick sharply. "Who is it you're talking to?"

"To him," explained George, nodding toward Lord Harrowby. "To my brother Allan. Don't you know me, Allan? Don't you know—"

He stopped. An expression of surprise and relief swept over his worried face. He turned triumphantly to Trimmer.

Retreating Canine Warrior Upsets and Injures a Small Boy

The undignified retreat of a beaten bulldog from the field of battle, with his victorious opponent growling bloody threats at his tuck-in tail, was disastrous for seven-year-old Charlie Schultz, 308 Sumner street, this morning. Charlie was in the line of flight. The retreating warrior, whose eyes were turned to the destruction threatening him in the rear, upset the youngster when he ran between his legs, and Charlie sustained a deep gash on the head when he fell against the iron support of the Mill street crossing gates. Comrades took the boy to his home, where his cut was dressed.

The weather was all that Godfrey S. Rockefeller, eldest son of William G. Rockefeller, brother of the world's richest man, could find to talk about when he met a TRIBUNE reporter on the platform of the north side Milwaukee road station this morning. Rockefeller, with his mother and two brothers, went through La Crosse in the "Wisconsin," private car of President A. J. Earling of the Milwaukee road, at 10:30 this morning. They were enroute to the Twin cities from Oconomowoc.

Godfrey met the reporter when he stepped from the car to stretch his legs.
"Don't care if I do," he said when asked for an interview. "But I can't tell you anything except that we're only out for a pleasure jaunt. We left New York Sunday. I think it was, and stopped off at the lakes at Oconomowoc yesterday."

"Where are you going? To the exposition?"
"Well, maybe. What's doing around here, nothing but weather? Gosh, this is a bum climate."

And the young man climbed back into the car.
The three sons of William Rockefeller in the party were Godfrey, Frederic W. Lincoln and James D. Rockefeller.

Their private car was attached to train No. 55 at Oconomowoc at 5:37 this morning. They are scheduled to return through the city on train No. 4 at 12:55 tomorrow afternoon.

Syrian Orthodox Congregation on the North Side
Elects Officers at a Meeting Last Night

In compliance with a recently decreed of the Syrian bishop of New relative to the term of church officers, the members of the congregation of St. Elias' Orthodox church held their annual election in the church on Mill street last night. After the election, the session was devoted to winding up the business of the ecclesiastical year just passed.

The officers-elect are S. Markas, president; S. Skaff, vice president; Mike Skaff, secretary, and S. L. Markas, treasurer.

Two trustees were also elected at the meeting last night, the honors falling to George Sady and H. Skaff. The officers who terminated their term of administration last night are Ellis Sady, president; C. David, vice president; Dan Sady, secretary, and William Shatin, treasurer.

Miss Leila McKee arrived home on Saturday from Texas, where she taught music in the state normal the past year.

Same Old Liver
The rain fell sullenly. Truck horses plodded along the sodden street, patiently, heavily.

Gladys de Ver stood at the window of her house on Dudley avenue looking out on a sloppy and dismal world. The loneliness of the air weighed on her very soul.

"I am heart hungry," she sighed to herself, "aye, heart hungry."

But what was the use? There would be liver for breakfast just the same.

OLDFIELD GOES FAST

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Testing out his new French Delage car, Barney Oldfield, one of the starters in the Oldfield-Resta-Burman-Cooper championship 100 mile race on Saturday, today spun around the two-mile Maywood oval at the rate of 110.15 miles an hour, indicating that the coming four cornered contest will set some new records.

So often it is said of a sick man that one time he was the strongest man in the town.

WAR CONTROLS STYLES

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The war still controls women's styles. The Russian blouse and a military, flary tight fitting skirt were pointed out at the Fashion show today as the very newest ideas for fall dresses.

Instead of the ordinary parade of bedecked models, the new fashions were incorporated into an elaborate five act pantomime, staged with the accompaniment of the spotlight and scenery.

Questions for Self-Supporting Women

1. Some positions pay $5,000 a year to women.

Do you know what these positions are?

2. Would you believe that they are scattered all over the country?

3. —that there are more of them to-day than ever before?

4. —and that they range all the way from school-teaching and farming to the position of banker and advertising manager of large corporations?

Everybody is interested in success, but the successful business woman is somebody you haven't heard much about. Here's a page full of these "somebodies" in Edward Mott Wooley's illustrated article, "The Best Paid Occupations for Women." In this issue of our magazine feature

PLUTOCRAT BEGGAR TAKEN BY POLICE

The "plutocrat beggar" has made his appearance in La Crosse.

Metropolitan tales of professional beggars who amassed fortunes by working upon the sympathies of their fellowmen were brought to the minds of local police officials when Geo.
Mills, 67, arrested for begging at homes on North Eighth street, was discovered to have $25.60
in his possession when searched at the station.

The police had not decided what disposition would be made of his case at noon today. He may be "wagged" in county court central station said.

Housewives whom Mills had approached told the police he had berated them in abusive language when his demands for assistance were refused.

FISH STATION IN PARK IS MOVED

The government fisheries station at the northern extremity of Copeland park has been moved to the site of its new foundation, although the foundation has not been completed.

The concrete base of the foundation was laid more than a week ago. The upper portion of the foundation is to be of cement block. Laying the blocks is scheduled to start today, with the completion of the plumbing installation. The frame structure is jacked up to permit the plumbers to work unhindered.

GOODIES

of Your Childhood Days Baked the MODERN Way

The modern Cabinet Gas Range has now brought back to us the wonderful baking of the delicious cake, the pie that called for a second piece, biscuit light as a feather and wholesome, perfect bread—treats which we never really appreciated when we were youngsters.

A GAS RANGE MAKES BAKING A PLEASURE

No longer is it necessary to coax the fire until the oven is just right; no longer does baking mean a day-long task. With the modern gas range your oven is kept at just the right temperature, there is no long wait for it to heat and it does not cool off at the critical time. Baking is a real pleasure with a Cabinet Gas Range—and an economical pleasure, too.

AUSTRIA REPORTED PREPARING TO OPEN DRIVE INTO ITALY

Swiss Say the Massing of Troops and Guns Near Trent Has Been Begun

ROME, Aug. 3.—That Austria will begin a determined attempt to invade northern Italy through the Adige valley when the Warsaw campaign is ended is the information brought to Rome today from several Swiss frontier towns.

From some sources it is reported the massing of Austrian troops and guns between Trent and Rovereto already has begun. This report was partially corroborated in the last official dispatches from General Cadorna who said observers have reported the arrival of troop trains at the Rovereto station.

At several points along the Tyrolean frontier, particularly in the Ledro valley, small Austrian forces have attempted to take the offensive, but have been repulsed in every attack. The assaults, generally believed here, were for the purpose of feeling out the strength of the Italian positions inside the Austrian frontier.

The war office today gave out a report from General Dallolio, minister of munitions, who has just returned from a visit of inspection to Italian ammunition factories, that the daily output of shells is more than sufficient for the Italian armies and that the reserve supplies already on hand are large enough for a campaign of a year.

PIPE FOR WATER SYSTEM PAID TAX TO UNFAIR RATES

D. W. MacWillie Computes That La Crosse Paid $1,432.76 in Excess to Railroads

DUBUQUE RATE A DOLLAR LESS Enjoys Disproportionate Advantage Under Same Transportation Conditions He Asserts

How La Crosse, in transporting pipe for the new water system in 1913, paid $1,432.76 excess freight to the railroads because of alleged discriminatory freight rates was told today by D. W. MacWillie, president of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club, in a statement comparing the rates on cast iron pipe from Addyston, Ohio, to La Crosse and Dubuque, Iowa.

Dubuque is ninety-one miles nearer to Addyston, Mr. MacWillie computes. In 1913 Dubuque enjoyed a rate of one dollar per ton less on cast iron pipe from Addyston than that charged La Crosse. Reducing it to ton-miles, Mr. MacWillie's statement avers, Dubuque would have paid 6.26 mills, while the La Crosse rate was 7.04 mills. Transportation conditions are exactly the same, Mr. MacWillie said.

His statement follows: "Short Line mileage, Addyston, O., to La Crosse, 1,554 "Short Line mileage, Addyston, O., to Dubuque, 1,463

Difference in favor of Dubuque, 91

"There were 3,322 tons purchased for the new water system in 1913 on which we paid a freight rate of $3.90 per ton. The rate to Dubuque was $2.90 at that time. We paid freight charges aggregating $12,994.80. Dubuque would have paid for the same number of tons $9,662.80, or $3,332.00 less. Transportation conditions are exactly the same, but we paid a rate of seven and four-one hundredths mills per ton mile, while Dubuque would have paid a rate of six and twenty-six one hundredths mills per ton mile. In other words, had we paid the same rate per ton mile as Dubuque, to which we were justly entitled, our rate would have been $3.47 per ton mile instead of $3.90 and our aggregate freight charge $11,562.04, a saving of $1,432.76.

"We have to fight every road east of Chicago as well as the three entering La Crosse."

BENTLEY TO GREET STATE BONIFACES

Program for Convention Here August 16 and 17 Given Out Today Lists Prominent Speakers

The program of the nineteenth annual convention of the Wisconsin State Hotelmen's association, to be held here August 16 and 17 was announced today by C. A. Hunt, who has charge of the arrangements.

The first day's sessions will include several addresses by prominent hotel proprietors and those associated in hotel work throughout the northwest.

Mayor Arthur A. Bentley will deliver the address of welcome, which will be answered by President Ray Smith.

E. C. Conroy, Milwaukee; C. A. Hunt, La Crosse; H. S. Hadfield, Milwaukee; Ernst Clarenbach, Milwaukee; Walter S. Mase, hotel inspector of Wisconsin, Madison, and others will speak.

The activities of the first day will close with a banquet at the Hotel La Crosse.

Tuesday, August 17, will be taken up with a boat ride to Winona. Luncheon will be served at the Hotel Winona. Upon the return of the hotel men, they will be taken through the city in automobiles.

NEENAH COMPANY TAKES REG. M. HTAL RIFLE TITLE

Company I of First Wins State Title in Shoot Which Closed Saturday With Third Regiment Last

Company I of Neenah, first regiment, captured the regimental championship in the rifle shooting competition of the Wisconsin National guard, which closed Saturday.

The first regiment is the crack shooting regiment. The total scores for regiments in the competition which continued for three weeks, follows:

First, J. P. Joachim, colonel, Madison, 52,645.

Second, W. M. Lee, colonel, Oconomowoc, 52,663.

Third, R. A. Richards, colonel, Sparta, 53,101.

Company I of Neenah also contains the champion twelve-man shooting team in both slow and rapid fire, winning the slow fire title by but two points from Company I of Madison.

The Madison company was awarded the rapid fire trophy of the first regiment, because no one company may carry off two cups. Company I won them both this year, but received but one award.

SELF-MADE WOUND CAUSES DEATH OF SLAYER OF FOUR

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Death sealed the lips of George H. Jones, garage owner. He died today without making a statement. Last night he shot and killed his wife, his sister-in-law, Miss Katherine Cosgrove, and his brother-in-law, John Cosgrove, and fired on other members of the Cosgrove family. He then shot himself in the body.

Miss Margaret Bitner, 20, the "other woman," who drove the machine in which Jones rode when escaping the revolver shots of pursuing neighbors, immediately after the triple killing, was today being held as a witness.

"I thought there was nothing wrong in keeping company with him," she said. "We were to be married after he was divorced."

Mrs. Jones resented the friendship of her husband and Miss Bitner and brought suit for divorce. The killing was the result.

War Office News of Fighting

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Around Souchez and the Vosges, the Germans lost heavily in repeated attacks against the French trenches throughout yesterday and last night. Every assault was repulsed, according to the official communication from the war office this afternoon.

Attacks with grenades kept the French infantry on the alert all day. In the Souchez region the Germans showered hand bombs in attempts to rush the French positions but were forced to fall back, their lines riddled by machine gun fire.

Soissons was bombarded during the night with no great damage. At several other points along the valley of the Aisne the German artillery was active. Further east, in the Argonne, the enemy launched unsuccessful attempts to regain ground previously taken by the French. On the Meuse Heights, Eparges was heavily bombarded by the Germans, but without result.

ARMY NUMBERS MORE THAN MILLION "Incidentally, the entire world has deceived itself badly in guessing the numerical strength of the modern Turkish army. At the present moment there are no less than a million and a quarter of men under arms, trained, equipped and officered as no Turkish army has been in the past. This million and a quarter does not by any means exhaust the resources of the empire, and man for man, the Turkish soldier is as good as the English or the French. His environment has made this true. The Englishman or Frenchman is accustomed to various needs that accompany a highly civilized life and is less effective in trench life, where he finds them lacking. The Turk has never known these needs and the lack of them effects him in no way.

These things explain the confidence you see on every hand. This confidence is of the highest importance from another point of view. When the war is ended it will prove a most effective element in the new life which will be taken on by a regenerated young Turk of today—a regeneration which began with the close of the second Balkan war and which, increased by the success of the present war, will firmly establish the Turkish empire for all time to come on the territorial basis it now holds—if not a greater one."

empire that means "Fatherland" to every individual soldier.

"These, principally, are the reasons why the English and French, trying to force their way into the one city which more than anything else symbolizes to the Turkish mind the greatness, glory and even the very existence of the Ottoman empire, have found themselves facing an insurmountable barrier of fire and steel."

At Home

I had been received by his excellency at the private apartment he occupies in Constantinople during the alternate periods which he passes here between his duties as military aid to the sultan and chief commander of the first Turkish army.

Surrounded not only by the officers of his immediate personnel, but also by a number of pedigreed cats and a kennel of thoroughbred dogs, he manages during the few hours of repose granted him each evening, to enjoy a little of the atmosphere of "home," and domesticity. He had received me attired in civilian costume, such as any American business man might wear.

"It would be a mistake now to refer to me as the 'father' of the modern Turkish army," protested Field Marshal Von Der Goltz. "The Turkish army organization which is now surprising the entire world dates only from the Balkan wars, and is entirely a creation of the Turks themselves. Paradoxical as it may seem, the disasters of the two Balkan wars have proved for the Turks their greatest source of strength. Probably to them alone they owe their present salvation."

"Until the Balkan wars it has been necessary at all times to keep the flower of the Turkish army stationed constantly in Macedonia and Albania, because of the menace of uprisings by the Bulgarian, Serbian, Greek, Albanian, and other racial elements of the population. For the first time in its history the Turkish government is now able to concentrate in a very small area of territory its entire military strength for the defense of its capital and the Ottoman empire. There is no fear of internal uprisings or of dissensions in the ranks."

Former Lack of Unity Gone

Formerly, when the Turkish army included large contingents of the various racial elements of Macedonia, there was a lack of unity and of loyalty that constituted one of its greatest weaknesses. This, too, was swept away by the Balkan wars. The Turkish soldier, fighting in the ranks, today feels everywhere about him the spirit of unity, the patriotism and the inspiration which comes from undivided contact with men of his own race and religion. He fights with all his old time bravery, valor and zeal.

The interval between the close of the last Balkan war and the beginning of the present struggle was too brief to permit anything but the laying of the foundations of this reorganization of the Turkish army, but the effectiveness of what has been accomplished already has been demonstrated. Turkey, for instance, planned that instead of being dependent upon foreign sources for munitions of war, she would produce munitions herself. Today she is turning out practically all the war materials she is using in her successful resistance. True, the amount is not all she needs and with great supplies she could make a greater showing. Nevertheless her output is ample for maintaining a successful resistance to every attack that can be directed against her for an indefinite period.

ARMY NUMBERS MORE THAN MILLION "Incidentally, the entire world has deceived itself badly in guessing the numerical strength of the modern Turkish army. At the present moment there are no less than a million and a quarter of men under arms, trained, equipped and officered as no Turkish army has been in the past. LAWSON ASKS FOR RELEASE ON WRIT

DENVER, Aug. 3.—John R. Lawson today asked the state supreme court to release him under bond on a writ of supersedeas pending a final order for a new trial. The leader of the strikers in the late Colorado labor war, convicted of conspiracy in the murder of a mine guard and sentenced to life imprisonment, asked a new trial and liberty on grounds impeaching Judge Granby Hillier's fairness, alleging undue influence on the jury, and citing more than a hundred errors in his first trial.

INSPECTORS UNDER OUTLINE PLANS OF FEDERAL CONTROL PLANT DEDICATION

Reid and Eckliff Released on Bail Under Order of Federal Judge Landis

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Federal officials won the first fight with state authorities for possession of Robert Reid and Charles G. Eckliff, federal steamboat inspectors, Reid and Eckliff, who have been held in the county jail for the state's attorney in the Eastland disaster, today were released on bail by Federal Judge Landis.

The men appeared before Landis seeking a writ of habeas corpus to take them from the jurisdiction of the state courts. The petition for the writ will be heard Wednesday next.

Speeches, a band concert and a parade will be among the features to make memorable August 18, when the new water plans is dedicated, according to tentative plans outlined by the special water committee at a meeting in the city hall last night.

The parade is planned for the morning, about the downtown streets as a preliminary to the celebration proper at Myrick park. Four or five addresses will be made by speakers not yet selected.

VARSITY BUDGET GOES TO SENATE

Recommended Appropriations Call for Cut of $765,594 for Two Years

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 3.—The finance committee this morning sent the university appropriations recommended for the coming two years to senate in two bills, calling for an aggregate of $5,259,570.

The appropriation for the extension division is sent in a separate bill calling for $206,110 a year, for operation, and $3,000 for capital expense.

The total of $5,259,570 is divided: $4,768,290 for operation, $136,000 for maintenance, and $355,380 for capital expenditures, a total cut over requests of $765,594.

INQUEST FOR SUICIDE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 3.—An inquest probably will be held tomorrow on the death of Franklin L. Johnson, 43, assistant cashier of the Mercantile National bank, who killed himself in his private office in the bank here early today. The tragedy is the result of an illness of more than two months and not because of any shortage with the institution, officials of the bank declared.

TWO DIE IN AUTO SMASH

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Two persons were killed and five injured today near East Pembroke, N. Y., when an automobile skidded on an oiled highway and overturned into a ditch. The party was enroute to this city from Rochester. The dead: Mrs. Paul West, 20, of Rochester, N. Y.; Paul West, 5, of Rochester, son.

HOUSEWIFE MUST HAVE TRUE SCALES SAYS LEGISLATURE

Merchants to Be Protected Against Unwarranted Accusations Due to False Measures

Supervision of the city sealer has been extended by this section of the legislature to protect the merchant against inaccurate household measuring appliances, as well as protecting the housewife against short weight, according to a notification received by City Sealer E. H. Derr from the weights and measures bureau at Madison. Hereafter measures, weights and scales sold at retail by dealers must pass examination by the city sealer. This is in accordance with an amendment passed by the present session of the legislature.

The New Rules
The state department's new rules in this connection provide:
Graduated liquid measures may be offered for sale by dealers when such measures bear the inscription "for household use," or a similar and suitable inscription. The graduation of such measures shall be accurate. Graduated measures must not be used commercially and sealers of weights and measures shall not seal such measures.

Plain or ungraduated liquid measures made of light material, easily dented by pressure of the thumb and finger, shall be condemned. Provided, however, that such measures may be offered for sale by dealers when they bear the inscription "for household use," or a similar and suitable inscription. Measures bearing the inscription designated above shall not be used commercially. In the past many measures of this class and particularly those of one-half gallon and one gallon capacity have been used commercially and have been a fruitful source of short measure.

Family Scales
Family scales shall comply with the specifications and tolerances of the type of scale to which they belong, such as spring, counter, etc. All family scales offered for sale that are not in compliance with such specifications and tolerances shall be condemned.

Sealers of weights and measures have been subjected to much unnecessary loss in time and expense by being required to investigate cases of short weight due solely to the use of inaccurate types of family scales. The scale which is used by the housewife to check up the weights of the merchant should be as accurate as the scale over which the merchant does his weighing. The dealer offering family scales for sale has no means at his disposal of determining how the scale will be used by the purchaser, consequently large numbers of such scales are used commercially by farmers, peddlers and others.

Postal and Parcel Post Scales
Parcel post scales shall comply with the specifications and tolerances of the type of scale to which they belong. All parcel scales offered for sale that are not in compliance with such specifications and tolerances shall be condemned.

Tapes
Cloth tapes may be offered for sale by dealers when the same are plainly and conspicuously marked with the inscription "not legal in trade." Cloth tapes must not be used commercially and sealers of weights and measures shall not seal such tapes.

The above regulations shall not become effective until October 1, 1915, insofar as they relate to the "sale at retail" of the weighing and measuring appliances enumerated.

WILFRED HAMMES DIES

Wilfred, year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Hammes, died Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the residence, 1234 South Eleventh street. Funeral services will be held from the house tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and at 2:30 from the Holy Trinity Catholic church. Rev. Joseph Reisterer will officiate and burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

What They Need.

RUSHFORD'S FIRST CHAUTAUQUA NOT HURT BY WEATHER

Rain and Mud Don't Stop Crowds from Attending Tent Sessions; Return Engagement Assured

RUSHFORD, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special).—Rushford's first Chautauqua has come and gone and left in its wake a multitude of new ideas, pleasant remembrances and a feeling of general satisfaction. With but few exceptions, all who attended were more than satisfied and a return engagement was assured. Splendid attendance and undivided attention marked each day's work and much credit is due to the manager, Mr. Anderson, whose good humor was so infectious, despite the almost constant rain and mud during the week.

Circulation Man Here
The city enjoyed a visit from Mr. J. Sarbacher, of Winona, recently. Mr. Sarbacher is the manager of the circulation department of a Winona newspaper and gave our city some very nice compliments upon the various improvements noted since his last visit here, about a year ago.

Sextette Entertains
A sextette from St. Olaf's college of Northfield, Minn., gave a song recital in the Lutheran church last Saturday evening. All who attended enjoyed the program but as there were three or four other things going on the same evening, the attendance at the church was not as large as it might otherwise have been.

Fair August 24
August 24 to 27 has been selected as the dates for the annual Fillmore County fair. The premium list gives a large number of exhibits for which premiums will be given and the race program bids fair to draw many entries.

Farmers Optimistic

An optimistic opinion seems to prevail among the farmers in this vicinity concerning crops. Although the prolonged wet weather has caused the oats to rust considerably and the heavy rains has lodged both oats and barley in many fields, the acreage being good, a plentiful harvest seems to be in prospect. Corn is very backward and is just now in the tasseling stage, but if no bad weather conditions prevail later on, all seem to agree that the crop will be a good one. Potatoes, so far as can be ascertained, are fine, both in quality and quantity. Rye has been somewhat damaged by rain, but is better, in most instances, than many had expected. As for small truck, tomatoes seem to be running chiefly to tops, a general complaint being that very few tomatoes are forming. All gardens tend to the "jungle" variety, this year, because of the great amount of wet weather experienced. Early sweet corn is just being placed upon the market, where it commands a good price. Because of the rainy spell, many of the truck gardeners are planting second and third crops of small vegetables, as radishes, etc., which grow well.

"Sun Follower."

The old name of the sunflower was solselce, the sun follower. The ancient sunflower, or sun follower, was the marigold; the tall plants of the present day are of American origin.

UNIQUE RIDES FOR THE LITTLE ONES

Camels and Elephants Will Be Steeds for Children at Circus Here Saturday

But few Americans have enjoyed a ride on a camel or an elephant, but when Gentry Brothers' Famous Shows arrive in this city Saturday, August 7, the younger element will be given a chance to ride either upon the "ship of the desert" or the "burro of the jungle." In Gentry Brothers' zoo are camels and elephants trained especially to carry children around the hippodrome track in the big menagerie tent.

The sport is one that children very much enjoy. The rides are something entirely new to their sphere of life, and it is needless to say that the youngsters scramble for a chance to ride the queer creatures of other worlds.

Gentry Brothers have for more than two decades made a study of child nature. Their shows had their foundation in specialties that delighted children. Hence it is that the young mother of today takes her children to the shows that brought pleasure into her life years ago. Especial attention is paid to ladies and children who attend.

COUNTRY LACKING IN AVIATORS SAYS EXPOSITION FLYER

Nation Would Be Seriously Handicapped in Air Warfare in Case of Hostilities

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 3.—There are less than 200 aviators in this country who would be of any value to the army or navy in case the United States should become involved in war. There are even fewer aeroplanes.

Art Smith, the sensational flier of the Panama-Pacific exposition, expressed this opinion today in discussing the aviation arm of the country's service in connection with the question of national defense, which President Wilson is to take up when he returns to Washington.

"There are not more than 100 aviators outside the army and navy who would really be of service under present conditions," said Smith in an interview with the United Press. "The question of machines would be Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. worse for a time than that of men. The exhibition machines now in use in various parts of the country would never serve for military purposes. We would simply have to wait until the aeroplane factories turned out some aeroplanes that could be used, and then, they would not be up to those at the disposal of the European armies."

Smith maintained that lack of government support was the cause of this country's falling so far behind other nations in aviation. What is needed is new interest by the government, greater appropriations and constant experimentation, he said. More men should be drilled as fliers and better machines produced.

"There were at least 2,500 experienced aviators in France when the war broke out," said Smith. "Hundreds were civilians, but they could take their place with the aviators of the army in immediate service. Should the United States become involved with a power similarly equipped with men and machines, our weak little force would be massacred in no time. The 'eyes' of our army would be gone. The enemy aviators could see everything that went on in our lines, and we could see nothing." Smith also pointed out that the aviators of this country were far behind in making sustained flights, necessary in military work. European aviators have flown hours where American airmen have flown minutes.

ONE DEAD IN WRECK

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 3.—One man was killed and another seriously injured early today when the Buffalo night express of the Pennsylvania railroad plowed into a landslide at Churchill near here. The victims: Jesse Williams, 38, engineer, Pittsburg, scalded to death; M. R. Hilbrich, 22, fireman, Pittsburg, probably fatally burned. Five cars left the track but remained upright and none of the passengers was badly hurt.

SCHWALBE TO LEAD
LA CROSSE GUNNERS TO STATE TOURNEY

Amateur Champion of State to Defend Title at Milwaukee Friday and Saturday

Frank Schwalbe, Jr., La Crosse trapshooter and winner of the state amateur championship at Green Bay in 1914, will compete in the annual state championship at Milwaukee on Friday and Saturday of this week. Other local shooters to attend the meet will be C. C. Mitchell, professional, W. A. Wager, E. W. Gautsch, Gus Rose, A. J. Roberge, Adolph Petrick and Ed Newburg. The men will leave Thursday night for Milwaukee to be on the grounds of the Badger Gun club where the meet will be held, early Friday morning. On the outcome of the meet will depend whether or not any of the men will attend the Grand American handicap shoot at Chicago August 16 to 20.

Star marksmen of the middle west will participate in the shoot. According to Secretary Ed Leidel, nearly 150 shooters will take part, making the meet one of the largest of the year, outside of the Grand American handicap.

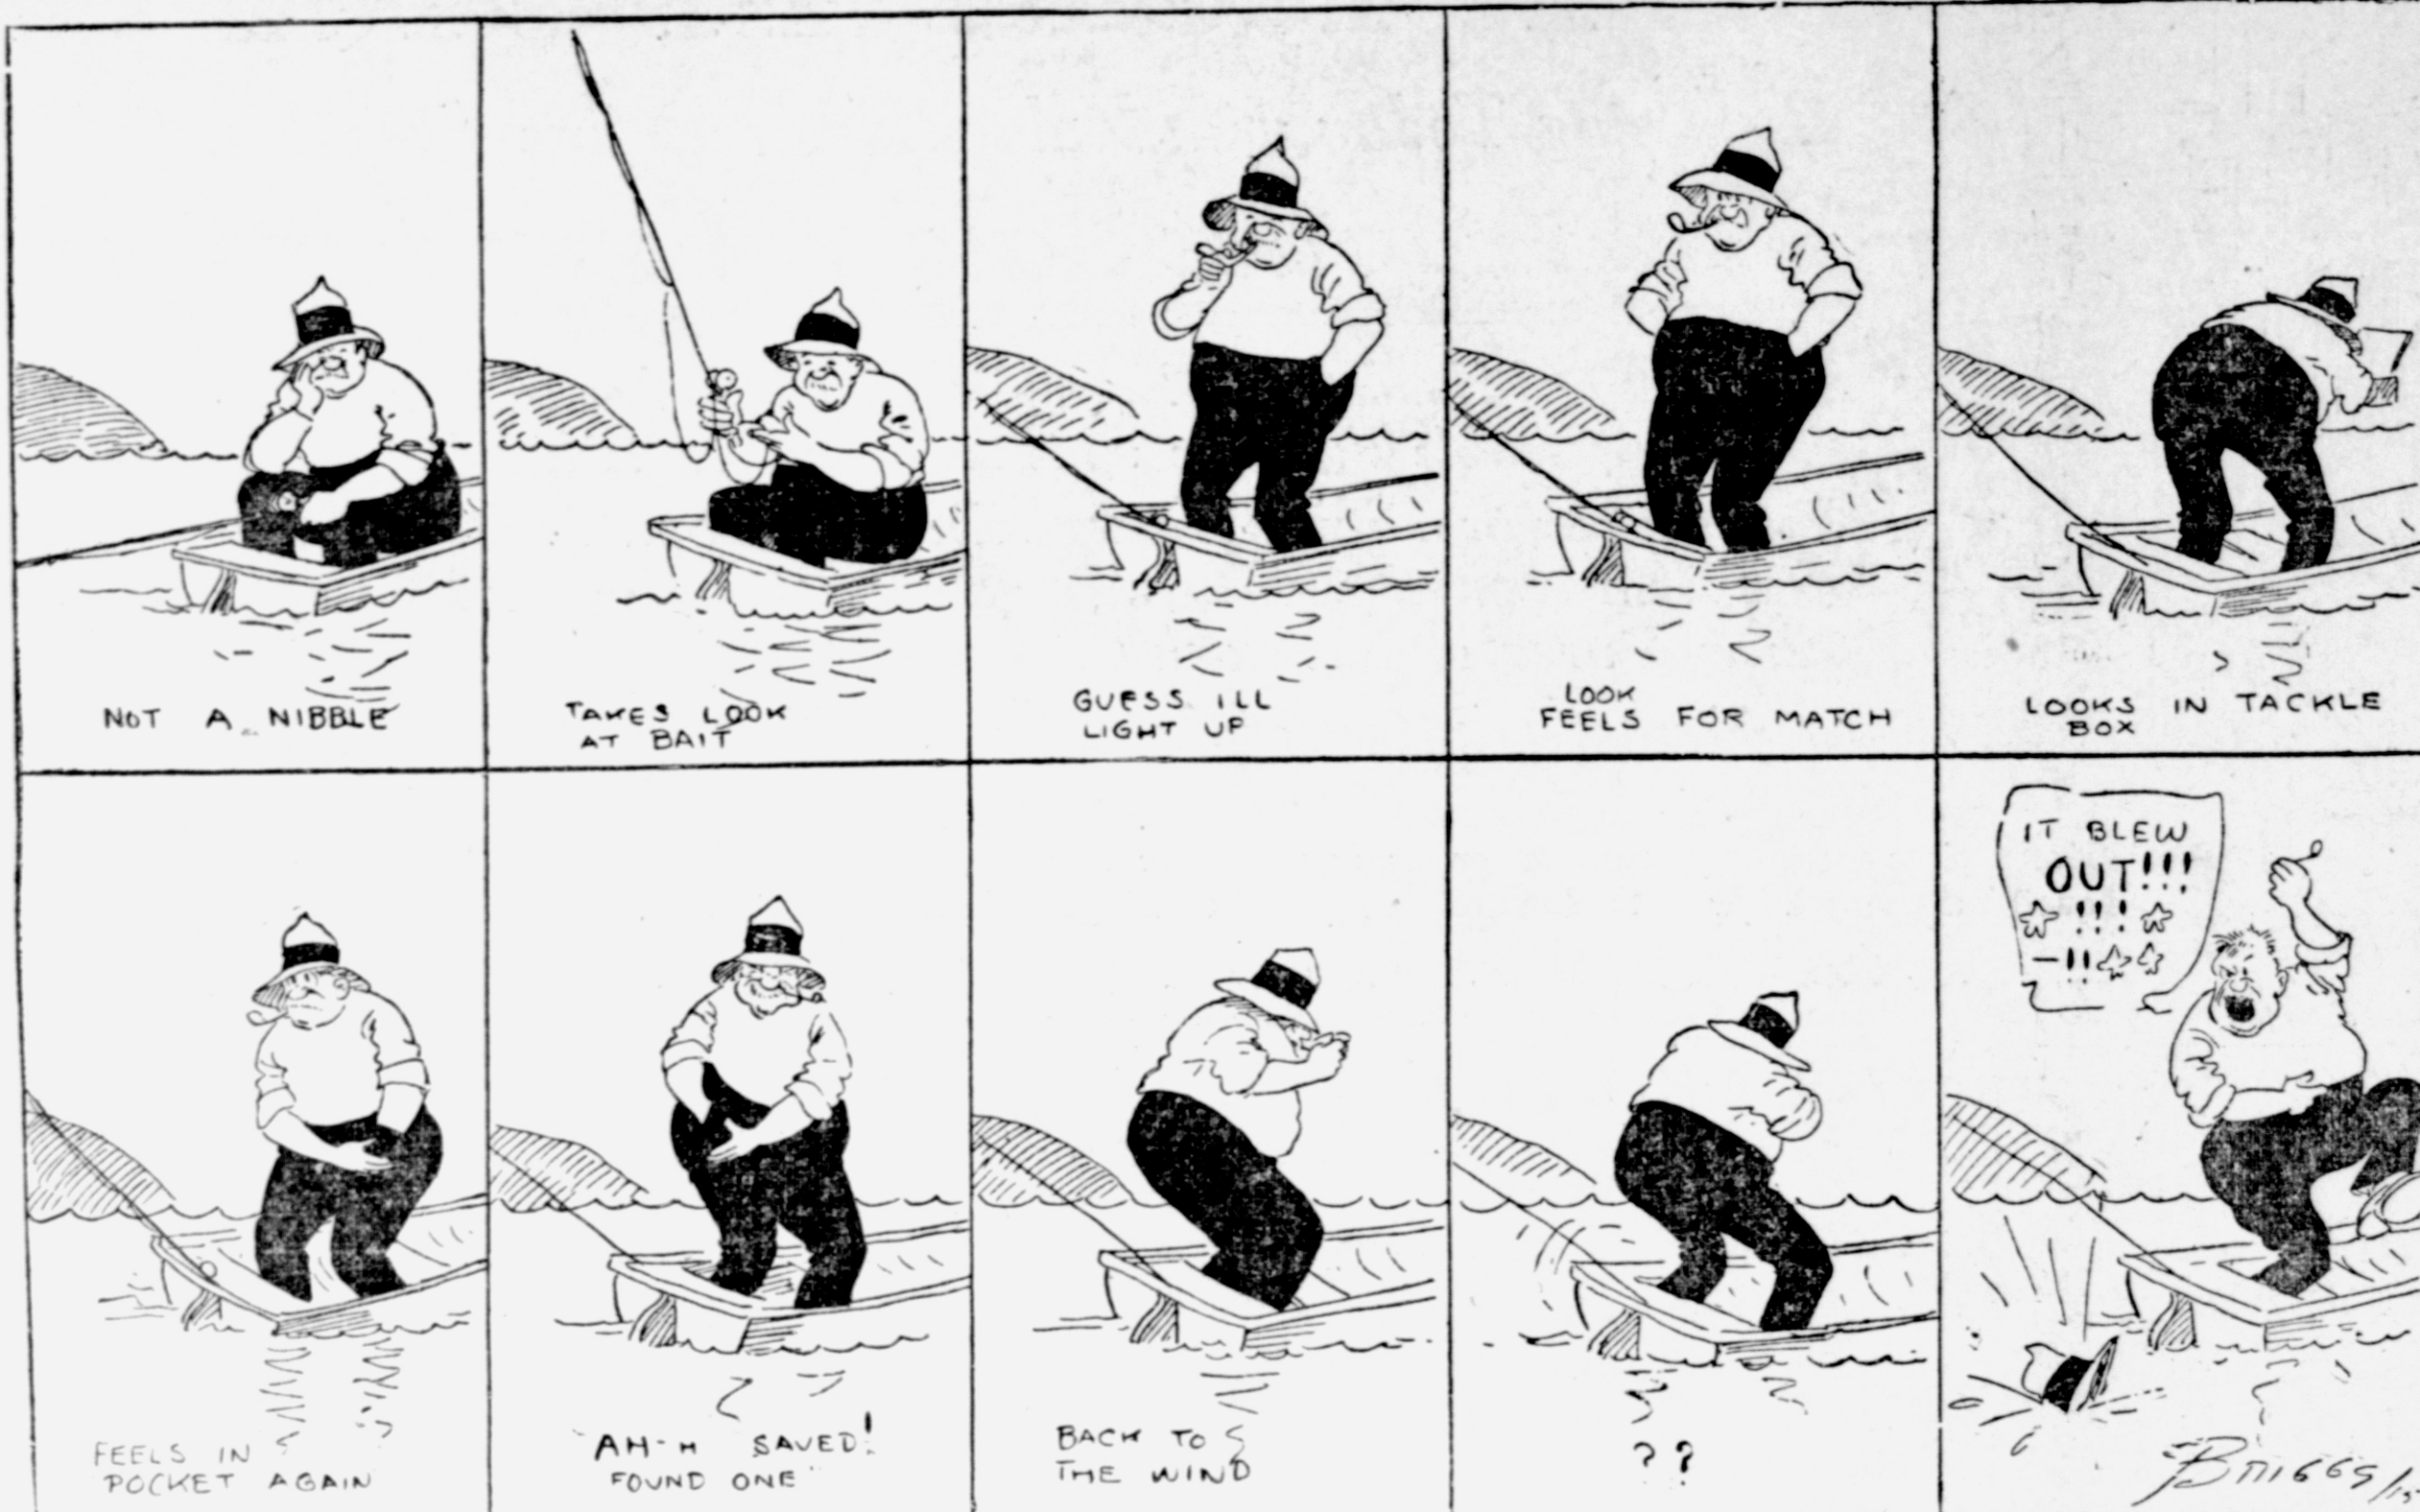

The program for the first day will be 180 targets, consisting of nine twenty-target events. Total entrance $5, one cent deducted for targets, balance constituting purse. Fifty dollars will be divided equally among the ten low guns shooting through the entire day's program; all targets sixteen yards rise and open to all amateurs.

The program for the second day will be sixty targets, consisting of three twenty-target events. Total entrance $2, one cent deducted for targets, balance constituting purse. All targets sixteen yards rise, open to all amateurs. Immediately following this will be the amateur state championship event, consisting of 100 targets, open to all bona fide residents of the state. Entrance for this event will be $3 for those wishing to participate in the purse and $2 for those wishing to shoot for trophies and honors only.

The interstate association awards seven trophies to the winners of the seven first places (not class shooting), that is, the seven high guns, ties to be shot off at twenty targets per man, and so on until the winners are determined. The winner of the amateur state championship, in addition to the trophy and the first money in the purse, will be awarded $50 in cash by the interstate association, conditional on said winner (or runner up) making entry and competing in the national amateur championship at Chicago, Ill., August 16 to 20. Fifty dollars will be divided equally among the ten low guns shooting through the entire day's program. All purses divided Siefken high gun system, one money for every three entries.

PACKY AND MIKE
PROMISE A FIGHT

Articles Arranged for Ten
Round Go at Brighton
Beach for Big Purses

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Packy McFarland and Mike Gibbons, after reaching an agreement as to weight and guarantees, promised today to sign articles for a ten round bout before the Ocean Athletic club at Brighton Beach, N. Y., on the night of September 11. The fighters will each post $1,500 as a guarantee of their appearance.

McFarland is to receive as his share of the bout $17,500, the largest amount ever paid any fighter for a ten round go. Gibbons is to get $15,000, and neither fighter is to have any share in the moving picture rights, or other concessions. Weight agreed upon was 147 pounds at 3 o'clock.

One week prior to the contest, the $32,500 purse would be placed in a New York bank and any postponement of the contest, due to weather will be arranged by a committee selected by the fighters.

AD BEATS YAEGER
AT OSHKOSH SHOW

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 3.—The state boxing commission, indirectly pronounced Ad Wolgast, ex-light-weight champion, the winner in a scheduled ten round bout here last night with Dauber Yaeger, when that body's representative at the fight ordered the referee to end the contest during the seventh round, because of Yaeger's condition. Wolgast had staged such a "come back" that Yaeger was weak from loss of blood.

NEWARK SEATS LOW

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—With the announcement that the Newark Federals positively would finish out the schedule in the Jersey metropolis, P. T. Powers and Harry F. Sinclair, the owners, also made it known that hereafter the highest priced seat in the park will be fifty cents. Bleacher seats will go for fifteen cents.

Her Afternoon Naps.

Not knowing that my little niece had been showing recently a disposition to disregard her afternoon naps, I asked her, "Elizabeth, do you take a nice nap every afternoon?" A faraway look came into her eyes and her tiny chin set as she answered slowly, "Yes, I usually do; my mudder has trouble with me, though."—Exchange.

THE GOOD JUDGE TAKES A WALK

Oh, the users know what the Real Tobacco Chew does for a man—and lots of men want their friends to get in on the joy of the small chew that satisfies.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!!
W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

Maple Bluff Golfers Come
Week from Saturday for Second Home and Home
Meet of the Season

Now that the state tournament is a thing of the past and a foursome cup has been brought to La Crosse by Robert Gordon and C. J. Feibel, members of the La Crosse Country club are focussing their attention on the return match on the local links August 14, with the Maple Bluff people of Madison, in the annual home and home play between the two clubs.

La Crosse golfers were beaten at Madison July 19, 18 to 51. On that date Robert Gordon defeated former State Champion F. W. Jacobs 1 up. That the local players will make a better showing at the coming tournament is conceded, considering the great play of Gordon, Van Auker, Feibel and Hankerson at the state meet.

ATHLETES WORK OUT FOR GAMES AT EXPO

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 3.—Working out in the Panama-Pacific exposition stadium today, a great galaxy of athletes were fast rounding into form for the Junior and National Amateur Athletic union championships to be held here Friday and Saturday, respectively. Whether records will be shattered depends largely on the weather. The stadium is near the bay and frequently is swept by high winds.

The possibility of a meeting between Norman Taber and Abel Kiviat in the mile run is arousing the greatest interest. However, in practice Taber had been favoring the half mile route.

CHICAGO HAS SWIM

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Entry blanks were today distributed for the eighth annual Chicago river swim, conducted by the Illinois Athletic club, to be staged August 21.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

Oh! Frank Schulte, who has been driving in runs ever since Noah opened his windows and squinted at the heavens, snared the only homer in the big show yesterday.

Even Old Jube Pluv has signed with the Cobb-Crawford-Veach combine. He waited until the Tigers were two runs to the good against the Red Sox, then sobbed all over the diamond.

Yesterday was a great day for the Germans—Jeff Pfeffer won a game, aided by Gus Getz and C. Stengel, while Herzog drew three hits. Connie Mack's latest—Mr. Fillingim—was most soundly trounced by the ignoble Indians. They rather filled 'im full of basehits. Now Mr. Mack should be filling 'im full of advice.

The Cubs are doing things to the Phils. They've taken two straight from the cheery leaders.

Kopp is the latest addition to the Senators. If Kopp of the Senators, Koob of the Browns, and Kopt of the Athletics ever get together they can send the scorers to Matteawan.

The Whales and Newark had a nice little private quarrel which went sixteen innings at Chicago. Early Moseley went the route for the Peps and was rewarded with a win.

Here's a double play: Koob to Kopp to Kopt. Ka-choo! Jeff Pfeffer would make a swell ending for that play.

CHAPPELLE REFUSES FED BID

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 3.—Larry Chappelle, Comiskey's "lemon," recently returned to the Brewers by the White Sox today notified the club management that he had turned down an offer from the Pittsburgh Federals. The announcement failed to excite the management.

TOBACCO AND GRAIN

CROPS DAMAGED IN CONTINUOUS RAINS

Autoists Abandon Machines and Crops Overrun Banks in Rains That Hurt Crops Says Sparta Report

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 3.—(Special)—Heavy crop damage was felt and roads were in places almost impassable by the rains which fell in torrents at close intervals from Sunday until last night.

Grain in many sections is badly lodged and in places entirely washed out. The tobacco crop is said to be badly damaged, although nothing definite as to the exact extent of the loss is obtainable now.

Some of the smaller streams swelled into large proportions and in places overran their banks. Hail was reported near Cashton.

The roads were hurt severely. Many motorists Sunday were forced to abandon their cars and return home by train.

Peter Knutson Dies

The death of Peter Knutson occurred yesterday afternoon at his home in Cannon Valley. Death came at the age of 73, after a long suffering with a complication of diseases. Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at the home. Burial will be made at the Fish Creek cemetery.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—United States Steel touched 68, a new high for the year, at the opening of the Stock Exchange today. Other steel issues and the war stocks were strong, while railroads opened irregular.

The market was very strong and active during the first hour. Bethlehem Steel jumped eleven points to 269. United States Steel sold at 68 1/2, then eased off 1/4, and Crucible Steel advanced to 75.

Brokers crowding around the United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel posts on the floor of the Stock exchange today registered their belief in the continuation of the war by bidding the former to the highest price it has made since 1913, and setting another high mark for the Schwab company's stock.

United States Steel at 68 1/2 and Bethlehem Steel at 275. United States Steel now stands thirty points above the low for the present year, made shortly after the dividend was passed.

The market was dull and under the best prices of the day during the early afternoon. Steel was firm. Rock Island advanced to 16 1/2 and sold at 15 1/2 at 2 o'clock.

The stock market closed weak.

Substitute for Spectacles.
If you forget your specs take a piece of paper, perforate it with numerous holes, place the paper close to your eye and hold the reading matter at a distance. This method will relieve the plight of forgetful ones, says Dr. M. Lesage.

MILWAUKEE IS DONE WITH CABARET

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 3.—Nearly 400 cabaret artists and entertainers trooped out of Milwaukee today looking for jobs. Under the new Stempel law, no sort of cabaret feature can be staged in connection with saloons. The bid was clamped on by Chief of Police Janssen last night.

The scenes of revelry that marked the passing of this time-honored institution will go down in the city's history as the most riotous on record. They even outlasted the customary New Year's celebrations.

GREEN-FACED GERMAN'S FIGHT
LONDON, Aug. 3.—Green-faced Germans, who paint themselves the color of surrounding scenery to escape detection, have been successful in sniping at the British troops, the Daily News reported today. A wounded private in the Second Royal Fusiliers is the News' authority.

BRINGS PRESIDENT NEWS FROM EUROPE

Ira Nelson Morris leaving White House after conference with Wilson.

Ira Nelson Morris, American minister to Stockholm, Sweden, has just returned to the United States for the purpose of having an operation performed. It is rumored, however, that the time chosen for the operation is opportune to bring to the president all important confidential information regarding the relations between the Scandinavian countries and the fighting powers. Immediately after his arrival last week he called at the White House.

FREE HELP FOR BABY

The forthcoming "Baby Welfare Number" of "The Crusader," the official publication of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, appears to me from the proof sheets to be one of the best publications ever issued by that organization. It contains so much information of general and specific interest to parents that several hundred copies have been set aside for distribution among readers of this column. Should you wish a free copy, address a post-card to this bureau (Milwaukee) and a copy will be mailed you without any further expense to you. You will be under no obligation, whatsoever, as this bureau is attempting to extend its usefulness and service to the thousands upon thousands of parents who desire to rear their babies better than they know how to.
